Dear Parents and Carers

There is no better way to enjoy this time of year than to take part in the traditions which bring our multi-cultural school communities together, giving thanks for what we have, and sharing what we can. If you couldn't get to anything in school in person, I hope you'll be reassured to know that our teachers and support workers did all they could to dress the schools and to prepare all sorts of goodies with the children, to display, or sell or give as gifts. Learning takes many forms, and as the world continues to change at a faster and faster pace, holding onto our social traditions is becoming increasingly important.

Whichever traditions are dear to you, I wish you the very best of times with your loved ones.

Warmest regards

Yours sincerely
